

PANIC

Has Overtaken the Republican State Committee at Columbus.

Franklin County's Big Slump

Promises to Surpass Anything Ever Before Known in the Capital City. Colonel Kilbourne's Friends Say He Will Carry Nash's Ward.

Columbus, O., Oct. 15.—If the political situation in other counties in the state that were carried by McKinley is approximately what it is in Columbus and Franklin county, James Kilbourne will be elected governor by a plurality not far from 80,000. This may be rather a sweeping statement, but it is undoubtedly just and by present indications.

Colonel Kilbourne will overturn the McKinley pluralities in Franklin county. He will in all probability carry Columbus and Governor Nash's own ward—a thing without precedent for a Democratic candidate to do in recent years. The Republican state committee during the past ten days has been seriously alarmed over the condition of affairs in Franklin county, and the evidences of this alarm are not difficult to find, since they appear on the surface of events. Indeed, it is so patent that they cannot be concealed. During this brief time the state committee has concluded that it must come to the rescue of the Republican county committee with liberal thoughts upon the hunches of the Huns barrel. The money was used in other sections of the state badly enough, but affairs here were so critical as to demand instant attention. Accordingly a sub-headquarters of the Huns machine has been opened in the Huns block at the corner of Fifth and Broad streets. Here fifty nervous women and a staff of male secretaries are now constantly at work, devoting themselves to "serving" the Republican city of Columbus and the county of Franklin, the safety of which during the past five years has not before been questioned. This sub-headquarters occupies practically a whole floor of the immense building in which it is located and the expense of its upkeep is something enormous. (With the salaries and all in all, it is not far from $1,500 a week. This, however, is a mere bagatelle as compared with the big salaries which Hanna, Dick, Malloy & Co. maintain in the Clinton block farther north. These high-salaried officials are as thick as flies in summer time and the staff of the sub-headquarters would appear like a "put on dress parade" world appearance. It is a half proposition that the Republican machine pays more for rent alone than the Democrats are able to pay to meet the total of legitimate campaign expenses. The Republicans have more money invested in typewriters, the machines, not the fair operators) than the Democrats have in all departments of their work combined.

Notwithstanding this startling inequality in the means at the command of the respective committees, Democratic prospects are brighter now than at any time since the nomination of the state ticket. This county probably leads off in the general slump from the Nash support of two years ago, although Lucas county is a close second in this regard; but from all sections come reports of the same tenor. The bosses cannot hold the Republican voters in line in this county, and they know it. The vast resources they are tapping in the vain hope of doing so, plainly tell how hopeless the task is. With a normal Democratic vote, as things now stand, Kilbourne will be elected. The county Democratic organization should not overlook the necessity of this normal vote, and if they do not there will be no doubt as to the result.

The Republican state committee last week switched Governor Nash off from the county fair route and put him at work alone exclusively under committee assignments. The managers now regret that this was not done earlier in the campaign. The fact that the opening of the formal speaking campaign was so long postponed, however, hardly left them any other choice than to permit the governor to accept county fair invitations until the opening provided an excuse to call him off. Most of these agricultural festivals were attended by both gubernatorial candidates, and this was what hurt the governor's managers. They had no way of preventing Colonel Kilbourne from accepting the same invitations that were extended to Governor Nash, but the thing became painfully monotonous when reports poured into Republican headquarters to the effect that the popular comparison of the two candidates on such occasions was invariably unfavorable to the governor. It was manifest everywhere that Kilbourne made greater headway than his opponent, and it was with a sigh of relief that Dick welcomed the excuse of committee assignments to send the Republican candidate off by his lone-some. Dick is now a firm believer in the proverb that "comparisons are odious."

Meanwhile Colonel Kilbourne and the Democratic committee are serenely satisfied with the course of events. The Democratic candidate believes that his cause has been materially strengthened during the past three weeks. While Republican disaffection is apparent on all sides there is absolutely nothing to indicate a lack of cordial support of the ticket and the platform among Democrats. This is what Colonel Kilbourne has gathered in the course of his active campaign thus far, and the impression is emphasized by the most recent reports at Democratic headquarters. There is good reason to believe that the conditions in Franklin county before alluded to constitute a reliable index to the situation that prevails throughout the state.

SAFE BLOWN UP.

Robbers Looted a Bank at Two O'clock This Morning.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat. Shelby, O., Oct. 15.—The Farmers and Citizens Bank, at Tiro, near here was blown to pieces, and looted this morning early by six bank robbers. Four of them guarded the bank with Winchester and two blew it. The explosion awakened citizens. Mayor McConnell living across the street from the bank lighted a lamp and made a good target as he stood at his front window. The robbers broke glass about him but missed him by a hair. They stood off citizens, went to a near by livery stable, bound and gagged the liveryman, took several rigs and made their escape. It is not known yet how much money they got but quite a large amount was on deposit in the bank.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 15.—After the jury was completed in the trial of ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers as accessory to the murder of Governor Goebel, the defense challenged the whole jury, charging it with political bias and the officers of the court with packing the jury for the purpose of conviction. Both sides presented affidavits and arguments, after which Judge Cantrill overruled the motion of the defense to disqualify the jury and also a demurrer to the indictment to which the defense took exceptions. Witnesses were then sworn and a list of attorneys on both sides furnished the court. Presently Franklin read the indictment against Powers and Colonel T. C. Campbell stated what the commonwealth expected to prove.

Mysterious Affair.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 15.—The mystery surrounding the instant killing of Superintendent John T. O'Brien at the Richmond locomotive works became intensified when it developed that hardly a minute before he was shot through the heart by a bullet, one of his mechanics, who was standing about 15 feet behind him, was shot in the back of the head. Parker is at his home. It seems a miracle that both men were not killed. Parker can not imagine how it was done or by whom.

Cashier Indicted.

Brownsville, Tenn., Oct. 15.—P. H. Anderson, late cashier of the Haywood County bank, which failed several days ago, was indicted on two counts by the grand jury. She says great courtesy was shown her at first but now that Turkish soldiers are on the trail of the kidnappers her lot has been much harder. She begs that the ransom be sent at once. No one has yet appeared at the agreed rendezvous to claim the ransom money already sent or tell what is the fate of the kidnapped woman.

Broad and Sullivan.

Buffalo, Oct. 15.—Kid Broad and Dave Sullivan fought a second draw in the arena of the International Athletic club at Fort Erie. It was their fifth encounter in the ring and though opening slowly, it finished as fast as could well be desired. During the early stages of the fight Sullivan was often hammering Broad's body with stinging smashes and heavy swings, but the Kid was sturdy and did not weaken or display any signs of distress. In the last half dozen rounds Broad began to rock Sullivan's head with hard drives, and in the eighteenth and nineteenth rounds had his man groggy and in a very bad way. In the closing round Sullivan picked up wonderfully.

FLOWERS AND FRUITS

Arriving at Auburn For Czolgosz. The Electrocuting.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Superintendent Cornelius V. Collins will send a request to Secretary of State Hay to designate an official representative of the government to be present at the electrocution of Leon F. Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley. Only 25 witnesses will be present in the chamber of death when the sentence is executed. Czolgosz expresses no fear as to the electrocution, but says that he would not care to go outside of the prison, for he believed that the people would kill him. Since his confinement in Auburn prison he has received thousands of letters from friends for him at the prison as well as a large number of express packages containing flowers and fruit. The letters, flowers and fruit have never reached the condemned man. The flowers and fruits, it is learned, have been sent by Christian societies, as have a number of letters consoling him in his last moments. Other letters have come from cranks who have written about the species of torture to which they would put him if they had the execution of justice in his case. It is stated, however, that it would be a matter of surprise if the names of senders of fruits and flowers were made public.

Run On a Bank.

Buffalo, Oct. 15.—A run on the Fidelity Trust company, a state banking institution, was begun by a long line of anxious depositors, who stood for hours waiting to withdraw their money. Prominent bankers and business men say that the run, which caused the run is groundless, and that only small depositors are withdrawing their accounts. Several large deposits were made during the day by business houses, and large sums of money were sent to the Fidelity company's office by local banks. At the close of business President Forman stated that the withdrawals exceeded the deposits by only $50,000.

Devastation by Floods.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The navy department has received a report from the United States ship Helena regarding the devastation by flood of the Yang-Tze valley above Nanking, China. The water reached the highest point in 50 years. The devastation was widespread, the flood wiping out old villages and sweeping away the lightly constructed farmhouses. The extensive crops of corn, rice and beans have been too long covered by the water to survive, scarcely any live stock remains, and famine stares the people in the face. The loss of life was very great.

Explosion in a Mine.

Tunnel, W. Va., Oct. 15.—By an explosion in a mine here 12 miners were burned, five probably fatally. The accident was caused by a miner loading a hole with too much powder, causing the dust from the electric machines to ignite and explode. The following are probably fatally burned: William Haney, Peter Spiker, Chester Buckley, Ernest Cross and Frank Dodge. These had the flesh burned so that it was hanging in shreds from their faces and hands and exposed parts of the body. The eight other miners were painfully burned.

"MODEL"

For Anybody, Worthy of Emulation at All Times" is Sears' Estimate of Schley.

The Lieutenant Commander of the Brooklyn Testifies on the Stand Concerning the Conduct of the Hero of the Santiago Fight.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The end of the Schley enquiry is now in sight. Raynor said this morning that the testimony he would present would be short and concise.

Lieut. Commander Sears, who was on the Brooklyn at the Santiago battle was on the stand this morning, and in his testimony said: "I turned to Commodore Schley and said I thought the Viscaya would try to ram us, he assented I think. He then gave the order, 'Hard a port' but Captain Cook had already given that order."

Sears was asked "how many times have you seen Commodore Schley under fire?" "Five times." "What was his bearing?" "He was model for anybody, his conduct was worthy of emulation at all times. His faculties were, if anything clearer when he was in personal danger. He was always putting himself in exposed positions and I was continually begging him to be more careful."

CAPTAIN COOK TALKS.

He Has Nothing But Praise for His Superior Officer.

Washington, Oct. 15.—In the Schley court of inquiry Judge Advocate Lemly concluded presentation of testimony for the government, and the first of Admiral Schley's witnesses was introduced. Captain Francis A. Cook, who commanded Admiral (then commodore) Schley's flagship, the Brooklyn, during the Santiago campaign, and who acted in the capacity of chief of staff for the commodore, was on the witness stand the greater part of the day. He was followed by Lieutenant Commander William Pulliam, who was senior watch officer on the New Orleans during the Spanish war, and former Lieutenant Joseph Deal, who, as an officer on the Harvard, translated the cipher dispatches between Commodore Schley and the navy department carried by that vessel. Among these dispatches was that sent by Commodore Schley May 28, expressing his regret at having been unable to obey the orders of the department, and explaining the reason why he could not do so. There are some verbal discrepancies between the original draft of this dispatch and the official print of it, and these Mr. Deal explained.

Lieutenant Deal was the last of the government witnesses, although Captain Lemly explained that he would reserve the right to call others if occasion should demand that he do so. He had no sooner retired than the first witness for Admiral Schley was called. This proved to be the Cuban pilot, Edward O. Nunez, who told Schley on May 28, 1898, that he did not believe the Spanish fleet under Cervera was in harbor at Santiago.

Captain Cook's testimony was a review of the entire campaign after Cervera's fleet, beginning with the departure of the flying squadron from Key West on May 12 and concluding with the battle off Santiago July 3. He said that at first it had been believed by both Sampson and Schley that the Spanish fleet was in the harbor at Cienfuegos, and that nothing to the contrary had been conveyed to Commodore Schley until the arrival of Captain McCalla on May 24; that it was Commodore Schley's expectation to meet the Spanish in the open sea, and his constant care was to have coal enough for such emergency. He gave particulars concerning the retrograde movement, and explained the Brooklyn's loop in connection with a graphic account of the engagement of July 3. Asked for an opinion as to Admiral Schley's bearing as a commanding officer, he said: "I always regarded him as an enthusiastically brave and patriotic officer."

Describing the battle, Captain Cook said that Commodore Schley did give the order "hard a port" whereby the Brooklyn made her famous loop, but that he (Cook) had already given it, and that at the time the commodore gave it the helm was then a port. He asserted that the possibility of a collision with the Texas never entered his head. He thought the Brooklyn crossed the bows of the Texas at about 400 yards distance. The nearest position of the Brooklyn to the Spanish ships he put at from 1,500 to 2,000 yards. Asked if he considered then that the Brooklyn was in danger of being rammed, Captain Cook said: "No, they couldn't ram us unless they got within our tactical diameter, 650 yards." Captain Cook said that at one time the Brooklyn was engaged alone with three Spanish ships. This was after the turn, when the Brooklyn had got on a parallel course with the Spaniards.

Captain Cook next described the difficulty of coaling in the running act off Santiago. The Brooklyn did not have full steam power during the fight of July 3, because an order required the keeping up of steam for moving eight or nine knots with some engines coupled.

tacked by a party of five burglars at an early hour. The outside door was blown off and the force of the explosion was so great that it hurled the door through the front of the building. For sometime several south Lima gentlemen have endeavored to effect a deal securing some mining claims in Missouri. Negotiations are about completed. It is probable an association to be known as the south Lima Mining company will soon be organized. Matters continuing favorable a representative may go west soon to complete the deal. The men believe they have an option on some promising claims which they hope to be able to soon develop.

PROSPECT

Is Not Very Encouraging

For Another Race Meeting
This Season.

Meeting Held Last Night Profited
Nothing for Those Who Wanted to Hold the Races Next Week.

For a few moments yesterday it looked like Lima would have another race meeting of some importance before the season closed, but several buckets of cold water were dashed on the proposition last night, and the horsemen who had gathered at Aaron Fisher's barn to talk it over abandoned the idea and adjourned.

There was a fairly good attendance of race horse men, including both owners and drivers, at the meeting, and it was proposed to hold a two days' harness performance for purses ranging from $100 to $250. Trainer L. G. Lerch stated that three events each day were suggested, and that there would be plenty of horses here to make them interesting.

Almost immediately came the question as to who was going to foot the bills in case the receipts were not sufficient and while several suggested that they were willing to give $25 toward a fund, the majority present either declined or failed to put themselves on record as for or against the proposition. There were some also who expressed a willingness to enter their horses, and if the receipts were not sufficient to pay the purses they would permit all of the outside horsemen to draw their winnings, and then take what was left. Trainer Faurot absolutely declined to enter into any such an agreement and stated that he didn't want to have anything to do with the meeting. As he had one or two horses that the promoters of the meeting wanted to have entered, his declaration acted as a damper and the project, after being picked to pieces, was dropped into the waste basket.

After adjournment several of the boys got together and tackled the idea along other lines, and it is possible that at least a one-day race program may be decided upon, probably under the auspices of the Matinee club, in which one or two interesting match races between local horses may be arranged for.

PROMINENT

Young People Married in Shawnee Township.

A very charming marriage occurred last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. James Younkum, of Shawnee township, at which the contracting parties were Miss Eva Rusler, of Shawnee township, and Mr. J. W. Sarf, of German township.

Only the immediate relatives of the happy couple were present at the ceremony which was performed at the home of James Younkum, Justice C. A. Rusler, a brother of the bride, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Hon. William Rusler, former representative from Allen county in the general assembly, and the groom is the son of William Sarf, one of the substantial, prominent citizens of German township.

An elegant dinner dinner in courses in honor of the bride and groom was served on Sunday at the home of the groom's parents, at which were present Hon. William Rusler and wife, Misses Bessie and Daisy Rusler, C. A. Rusler, Mr. and Mrs. George Enslin and son, of Allentown; Miss Maude Zarnmehly, C. D. Strawbridge and wife, Alva Sellers, Daniel Bowsber and family, Misses Ora and Nora Bowersock, C. E. Strawbridge, William Sarf and wife, E. B. Sarf and wife, Anna Sarf, and William Sarf.

RHODES ON AMERICA.

Pioneer of South Africa Sees Great Possibilities Here.

FAVORS THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

Seen No Sense in England Opposing
Our Desire to Build and Control
the Isthmian Waterway—Would Like to Come to America, but Says
His Field Is in South Africa.

William T. Stend, writing to the New York Journal from London, says:

Cecil Rhodes has returned from his Scotch moor, radiant with renewed life and energy. He is quite a different man today from what he was when he arrived in England two months ago from Africa. He seemed in such buoyant health that I was a little surprised when he declared his intention of spending the winter in Egypt.

I could understand there was nothing for him to do at present in South Africa in the midst of confusion in which that unhappy land has been plunged by the attempt to destroy the independence of the Dutch republics. But why should he go to Egypt? Why not go to the United States, said I, that great new world center? Rhodes shook his head.

"My health is not quite sufficiently restored to subject it to the strain, and I want to be fit when I go back to Rhodesia. America is a great country, but restfulness is not exactly the note of the United States."

Rhodes' eye kindled when he spoke of America, for to him more than to any other public man in Britain the United States is as much a part of the fatherland as the United Kingdom. During all the years I have known him no note has been so constant in his conversation as the malediction which he hurled against the infidelity of George III. and his advisers who, like Jerusalem, the son of Nebat, "cursed Israel to sin." He declared the unity of the English speaking race and created two rival and sometimes antagonistic sections in place of the great unity which in Rhodes' dream would have given peace to the world.

Finding him somewhat disposed to talk, I referred to the change in the president, but was interrupted by Rhodes' outburst of admiration for the last speech of McKinley.

"It was splendid," said he, with glowing appreciation. "I have not seen anything quite so good for a long time. Just think of it! What conscious strength, what width of grasp, what ease in handling the greatest affairs of state! It is great!" said Rhodes. Then, turning to me:

"What about his successor?"

"Oh," I said, "the will carry out the policy of his predecessor, only more strenuously is likely to be the note of his administration."

"I wish you could meet," I said, "I would be well worth your crossing the Atlantic."

Rhodes reflected a moment and then said cheerfully:

"No, I can't do it. I must remember that Africa is my continent, not America. I am extremely interested in Roosevelt. It is not only his career and the part which he took with his tough riders in Cuba that attracted me, but I have a great leaning to any of the old Knickerbocker stock. I suppose there is an unmistakable Dutch strain in him, one of the best strains in the world—tenacious, brave, resolute. As you see them in the pages of Moley, so they are in South Africa today."

"Ah," said he, with a heavy sigh, "if only those brave fellows had been of our race! But they would not recognize equality and can't stand subordination of my race before any other, not even before the Dutch."

"I suppose," continued Rhodes after a pause, "they will cut the canal. But I don't understand why people should speak about this as a possible source of discord with England. Tell me if I am wrong," he said. "But it seems to me that this pedantic insisting upon an old treaty, which has become an anachronism, is bad statesmanship."

"We want the canal built. We are not prepared to build it ourselves nor to take any part in the building of it. The United States proposes to find all the money, take all the risk and do all the work, and why in the name of common sense should we object to its undertaking the sole responsibility for protecting its own property? It would be a different thing if we were going to share with the United States in the enterprise, but we are not. We are leaving it to invest its capital in the work and then grudging it a free hand in the defense of it."

"Of course I can take only a distant view of the question, but it seems to me that if we could secure from the Americans recognition of the principle that in the canal the British mercantile marine should in all perpetuity be privileged to enjoy American rights at American rates we should have everything to gain and nothing to lose by taking the initiative and regulating the Clayton-Bulwer treaty."

"We cannot expect them to feel less sensitive about the Isthmian canal than we are about the Suez canal."

From which it may be seen that Rhodes, being himself an artificer of empire, is capable of understanding and appreciating the necessities of other nations engaged in similar handicraft.

"The United States," said Rhodes, "sixty years ago was comparatively nowhere. Today it is just at the beginning of a career which may tempt it to wish to take the world. There is Central and South America, for instance. It is their hinterland, and who can realize the immense possibilities that lie before them in that southern continent?"

Col. James Kilbourne is a successful business man and he will give the state a successful business administration. His associates on the state ticket are also able men and eminently worthy of support. The entire ticket should be elected.

John W. Manges, the Democratic candidate for representative, is a sterling young Democrat from Richland township. He has filled township offices with signal ability and he will make a member of the legislature who will faithfully and ably represent this strong Democratic county.

The Ohio State Fair Exposition gave a good exhibition during two weeks this year, yet it failed to pay expenses. The shortage was $6,026.95, and Columbus men who guaranteed the financial success of the exposition will have to make up the deficiency.

Albert Heffer, the Democratic candidate for commissioner, is a thorough going and successful farmer of Perry township. By careful and intelligent management he has made a success of his own business, and he is therefore well fitted to look after the vast public interests which come under the supervision of a commissioner of Allen

A Bad Mix Up.

The wreck on the Pennsylvania near Ft. Wayne last week, which was mentioned in the Times-Democrat, was one of the most costly, considering the number of cars involved, that has occurred on the road in these parts for many a day. The five cars which figured most prominently in the mishap were loaded with general merchandise, and some of it was quite valuable says the Ft. Wayne Sentinel. Three of the cars were totally demolished and the other two were badly damaged, but not beyond repair. In the cargoes were clothing, canned goods, and much of this was dumped into the river. To make the loss more heavy, two barrels of linseed oil and some barrels of molasses were burst open and their contents poured out upon the water and smeared over the other goods. All of the contents of the cars have been taken from the river and are now at the warehouse on Clinton street, where they will be assorted and delivered to the owners or disposed of otherwise. The south side of the bridge was weakened by the wreck and no trains will be allowed to pass over that track until repairs are made. Cross-over tracks at the east and the west end of the bridge were put in last night, and all trains now cross the river on the north tracks. Some delay occurs occasionally at the bridge, but traffic is not seriously impeded. It required several members of the city and Pennsylvania police forces to keep the crowds at a safe distance from the bridge yesterday, but the day passed without any accident to the curious people who gathered there shortly after the wreck occurred and remained until darkness closed over the scene. The only one injured in the wreck was Patrolman Walter Redman, of the Pittsburg, who was riding on the unfortunate train and was thrown down by the sudden stopping of the cars. He received a concussion on the right side of the head, but the injury was not sufficient to keep him from his work.

Gaston Devereux and Laura Mort Will Take Their Chances

Of Getting Out of the Difficulty by Leaving it to the Petit Jury—Other Prisoners were Arraigned.

The interest in court today centered in the arrangement of a number of the prisoners who were indicted by the grand jury, principal of whom, was Gaston Devereux, who will be readily recalled as the young man with a dense memory and a penchant for endeavoring to help prisoners out of the county jail.

Devereux and Laura Mort, the former a prisoner and the latter a servant at the jail, were both indicted for laying the plans for a general exodus of the other prisoners, and when arraigned this morning, they entered pleas of not guilty.

Four other prisoners were indicted including the following: Edward Hatfield, two counts for pocket picking, not guilty; James Dawson, burglary committed at the Fidelity Coal company's office, guilty; J. R. Newcomb, horse stealing, guilty; Mack Walters, assault and battery, not guilty; Benjamin Hyer, sodomy, not guilty.

BANK CASE AGAIN.

Supreme Court Decides in Favor of the Bank.

This afternoon J. O. Ohler, representing Gus Kalb in the case of Gus Kalb against the American National Bank, received a telegram that the supreme court had affirmed the findings of the circuit court in this celebrated case. The action will be remembered as one brought by the American National Bank to recover from Kalb for the money which was taken from the bank while in his custody as cashier. The lower courts found for the bank and the supreme court confirms that decision. The bank was represented by Richie, Leiland & Roby.

The Royal Month and the Royal Disease.

Sudden changes of weather are especially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive. The progress of the scrofula during a normal October is commonly great. We never think of scrofula—its bunches, cutaneous eruptions, and wasting of the bodily substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this one disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative—consumption.

GOOD

Didn't Want Any Notoriety

And the Mayor

Permitted the Accused to Go Free

After Evidence, Sufficient to Warrant Binding Her Over,

Had Been Offered by the Verdict by a Woman in the Tenderloin District.

Isaac Good, a verdant youth who claims to hail from German township, complained to the police last night that he had been robbed of about eleven or twelve dollars by a woman who is an inmate of a resort opposite the P. Ft. W. & C. passenger depot. Good had come to town to see the sights and in company with a "round-er" who was perfectly willing to show him through some of the resorts in the tenderloin district. Good claims that he fell into company with a woman at the place opposite the depot above mentioned and that when he left her he found he had been relieved of his money. Officer Patton visited a resort kept by Ed. Cheney and made an investigation there but according to information given out by Chief Mill this afternoon, it was at the place known as the Pennsylvania house instead of the Cheney resort that the young man was in company with the woman. A woman who gave her name as Laura Taylor was arrested and Good and a man named Callan who had been with him at the resort were also held for the investigation of the case. The woman denied any knowledge of the whereabouts of the money when the case was taken up this morning but upon the story told by Good the mayor decided to bind her over to the grand jury. Good decided however, that he did not want the case carried any further for fear his girl in German township would find it out and he requested that the woman be discharged from custody, a request that was promptly complied with by Mayor McComb.

Whether or not the police could have been able to apprehend the person who was guilty of the robbery is a matter that will never be known but as this is not the first instance in which innocent victims have been deliberately fleeced by some of the hundreds of disreputable characters who have flourished with impunity in Lima during the administration of Mayor McComb. It is high time that steps were taken by some one to put a stop to such lawlessness.

CLAIMS

He was Kicked Off of a C. & E. Train.Missed the Car Wheels But was Badly Bruised.The Victim was Attended by a Physician and was Then Removed to the Hospital—
Home in McGuffey.

Shortly after 11 o'clock last night the ambulance was summoned to the C. & E. depot to convey to the city hospital, a young man who claims that he was kicked off of a freight train in the C. & E. yards. The young man gave his name as Harry Spangler and said that his home was in the village of McGuffey, east of this city along the C. & E. road. He claimed that he had attempted to board a train in the yards intending to ride to McGuffey or Kenton and had been kicked off of the car by some man whom he did not know and could not say whether he was a brakeman or some person without any authority on the train. A falling young Spangler managed to keep clear of the car wheels and sustained no serious injuries. His face was cut and he was considerably bruised and shaken up and he was placed in the ambulance and taken to the office of Dr. Hover where his injuries were attended. He was then removed to the city hospital.

SERIES

Of Nazarene Lectures
by Dr. KoehneWill be Delivered in Lima Next Week.An Extraordinary Effort Should be Made by Every Person in Lima to Hear These Interesting Lectures.

The thoughtful public of Lima will be greatly interested in the announcement that Dr. John B. Koehne, the distinguished lecturer on Christian Evidences, has been engaged for a course of nine lectures to be given in the Market street Presbyterian church, beginning Oct. 22. Dr. Koehne comes on the invitation of the pastors of the city. In the judgment of competent critics Dr. Koehne is one of the most brilliant orators on the American platform today. During six years his course on Christian Apologetics, delivered before Chautauqua's colleges and leading churches of all denominations has commanded greater audiences and aroused more enthusiasm than any similar series in the United States. The Reading, (Mass.) Chronicle says: "As a lecturer Mr. Koehne is a phenomenal success. He has a magnetic personality, a voice of great purity and is a master of all the acts of a born orator." Mr. Moody in '99 gave publicly, unsolicited and sweeping endorsement of this series. Recently at Oxford, England, Dr. Koehne restudied and rewrote this series, enriching it with new material. The following are the topics:

1. The Preparation for Christianity Through the Gentile World.
2. The Preparation Through Judaism.
3. The Apostolic Age.
4. The Kingdom. (Two lectures.)
5. The Reformation.
6. The Personality of Christ.
7. "Ecce Homo," a reply to Modern Skepticism, and probably as a closing lecture.
8. The New Aristocracy; or, The Rise of the Common People.

This series will be free to all and the public are cordially invited.

SURPRISE

Given in Honor of a Birthday Anniversary.

Mr. A. G. Small yesterday reached the 37th mile stone in life's journey, and in order to remind him of the passing event his wife cunningly planned and executed a complete surprise upon her leige lord. After Mr. Small recovered from his amazement upon reaching his home and finding it besieged with his friends he made the best of the affair, and assisted his estimable wife in entertaining their guests throughout the evening in a hospitable manner. An excellent luncheon served at midnight completed a most pleasant evening which all had enjoyed, and the guest departed wishing Mr. Small many more happy birthday anniversaries.

a Couple of Weeks But His Condition Was Not Considered so Serious.

The sudden and unexpected death of John Berrigan occurred at 8 o'clock this morning at his late home, corner of Vine and Metcalf. Mr. Berrigan had been ailing for the past two weeks with heart and kidney troubles and at 10 o'clock last night the family physician was called, it being noticed that the patient's condition was growing worse, but as Mr. Berrigan had been subject to such attacks before, no alarm was felt, the family thinking he would rally as before. The end however came suddenly at the hour above stated. The deceased was a sterling democrat and always took a prominent part in politics in precinct E of the Fourth ward. He was generous hearted and well liked by his associates. He was born in Geneseo, Livingston county, New York, July 4th, 1851. He removed to this city with his family from Edmore, Mich., twelve years ago last April. To mourn his death are his wife, four sons and one daughter, ranging in ages from 24 to 14 years. He is also survived by one brother, Thomas Berrigan, of Hubertson, Mich. and two sisters, Mrs. M. Manion, and Miss Josephine Berrigan, of Geneseo, N. Y. The funeral arrangements will not be completed until the relatives are heard from.

Endorsement of Paine's Celery Compound

Attracts the Attention of Medical Journals.

Thousands of Such Cases—Mr. Storms' Letter.

A medical journal, says a writer in the Boston Traveler, has the names and addresses of full histories of hundreds of cases of chronic and acute rheumatism that have been permanently cured by the wonderful remedy which has recently been attracting wide attention since Governor Yates of Illinois publicly endorsed it.

Nothing else has ever been known to cure like obstinate cases. When all others have failed this marvelous remedy for blood and nerves has made sick people well.

Paine's celery compound corrects unhealthy nerve action and feeds the nerve centers with the elements needed to build them up again into healthy tissues. It cleanses the blood of every trace of poisonous humor and encourages a rapid growth of the red corpuscles upon which the vigor of the entire body depends.

This action is perfectly infallible to every male patient.

Diseases of the nervous system do not come without warning. Rheumatism, dyspepsia, insomnia and diseases of the liver and kidneys are but bad crises for a prompt increase of nourishment for the brain and nerve centers. Paine's celery compound feeds these vital parts, and it is upon its marvelous power of nourishing all the nervous tissues and purifying the blood that its remarkable cures depend.

Weakness, lack of energy, and despondency are more a matter of nerves and brain than of the muscles. At this season of the year when thousands of over-worked people are suffering upon the dreary trail of disease, Paine's celery compound will have no occasion for doubt a year to come, many are already showing the symptoms that would later result from hurry, care, anxiety, and waste without the amount of rest and recreation that nature intended.

The reports of third mothers, school teachers, and ten thousand scholars will reveal the strain before the winter is over.

It is high time for all to strike at the root of the trouble. Begin the work of re-education and cure at the earliest moment.

An who try it will find strength and freedom from disease in Paine's celery compound, which corrects unhealthy nerve action, and supplies the veins with pure, more abundant, clean, vigorous blood. Paine's celery compound is almost universally prescribed by physicians—who differ on many other things, but who concur in its power to work the greatest of all remedies for the prevention and cure of disease. It is no exaggeration to say that every week brings hundreds of letters from those who have used Paine's celery compound and have been benefited by it. Also is the picture of Representative H. F. Storms, one of the cattle kings of Kansas, who says: "I regard Paine's celery compound as the most beneficial and valuable of remedies, especially during the fall months. He writes us have many thousands of others of the good the remedy has done in his own case. Let the reader try it and prove for himself the abundant truth of all that has been said."

It is not Paine's celery compound says, but what it does, that tells the story of its world-wide fame.

SCHOOLS IN PORTO RICO

Encouraging Results of the Work of a Year.

IMPROVEMENT IN FACILITIES.

Dr. Brumbaugh, United States Commissioner of Education, in a Private Letter to a Friend Tells What Has Been Accomplished in a Short Time.

Dr. M. G. Brumbaugh, United States Commissioner of education of Porto Rico, in a private letter to a friend at Schenectady, N. Y., tells of the progress of educational work in the island. He says:

First.—We maintain school in Porto Rico for nine months—i. e., the average school year is nine months. This is as high as any state in the Union, I think.

Second.—Our average daily attendance for nine months was 75 per cent. In 1897-8 it was in Massachusetts 70, Pennsylvania 74, New York 68, Kansas 60, Virginia 68, Texas 66 and New Mexico 64. Thus, you see, we are now ahead of Pennsylvania by 1 per cent and within 1 per cent of Massachusetts. This is a conclusive argument that our schools are popular in the true sense.

Third.—Under military government we had 612 schools. On May 1, 1899, we had 890 schools. For term opening Sept. 29 we shall have 1,000 schools.

Fourth.—When I came here, we had less than 100 good American school desks for pupils. Washington sent a few secondhand desks. Since I came we have put into the schools' use 7,900 first class desks. This year we shall add 7,500.

Fifth.—In January we had not one schoolhouse of our own in Porto Rico. We now have eighteen agricultural schoolhouses built and ready for Sept. 30, eight more in process of erection, six four room brick graded schools ready, two four room almost ready, three ten room in process, ready Sept. 30; one six room in process, ready Sept. 30; three two room in process, ready Sept. 30; cost of all, $200,000; cost of equipment, $30,000; insular nominal, ready Nov. 1, $35,000; value of permanent equipment, $265,000 in six months.

Sixth.—We have petitions for more schools daily; demand greatly exceeds supply. Our limit is money. We have $500,000 in this year's budget for schools, which is 25 per cent of all insular funds. Impossible to maintain more from insular revenue. United States government ought to give us $250,000 to $300,000 annually for ten years to erect schoolhouses. No local district has been able to erect a schoolhouse.

Seventh.—We have in many schools fifty-five pupils—the limit—and as many as 124 on the waiting list—i. e., batches up to 124 ready to enter various schools as soon as we can find room for them.

Eighth.—Spain had a few schools—only in towns. The poor peons never had a single school. We have now opened over 400 rural schools and 200 more will open Sept. 30, 1901. This is democratic ideals working among the humble and neglected. To us it is one of our best results.

Ninth.—Some one in Chicago is trying to have an official (?) Spanish version of the "Star Spangled Banner" adopted. It is not needed in Porto Rico. All our 40,000 children sing "America," "Hail Columbia" and "Star Spangled Banner" in English. We want no Spanish version of our national hymns. The children easily and quickly sing in English, and a national song loses force in a translation of any sort.

Tenth.—We are now on a propaganda to beautify the school grounds. First attempt—houses are being whitewashed or painted, grounds fenced, campus provided, flowers planted, an effort to take care of grounds and house. Its influence in the homes of the people is good.

Eleventh.—Local boards this year will have money to pay all their debts for the first time. This is the financial stamina injected in one year—e. g., Ponce owed $8,000 last year.

Twelfth.—Systematic practical agriculture will be taught in twenty schools—i. e., one acre of ground will be worked daily. Thus the industrial future of Porto Rico is being conserved.

Thirteenth.—The total cost of a pupil in our schools during the past year to the insular government is $12 for nine months.

Fourteenth.—The Hon. Andrew Carnegie has practically conceded to us a free public library ($150,000, due to my personal effort.

Fifteenth.—A free public library is furnishing 7,500 volumes; open daily till 10 p. m. Doing much good.

Sixteenth.—Budget for 1900 gave $400,000, for 1901 $500,000, for maintenance of schools.

This 25 per cent increase represents only our financial, not our educational growth. We could have voted $1,000,000 and had support from public sentiment. But we knew our financial limits. The main objection to the budget was that the school fund was too small.

Shamrock May Stay Here.

The New York Commercial Advertiser states upon what it believes to be reliable information that Sir Thomas Lipton has decided to allow the Shamrock II. to remain in American waters and that she will be here in time to race either the Columbia or the Constitution next season. Captain Sycamore and the greater part of the present crew, it is said, will remain with her, so as to improve every opportunity to familiarize themselves with American waters.

Yule's Supply of Governors.

"It is a rather curious fact," says the Waterbury American, "that the new governor of Porto Rico should be a classmate at Yale of the governor general of the Philippines—that is, that both Judge Taft and Judge Hunt were in the class of '78 at New Haven. We have no doubt that when it comes to choose out of the millions of eligible Americans a governor for Cuba some other member of the class of '78 at Yale will find the honor thrust upon him, although at the present moment we have no one in mind who could by any chance fill the bill. In this connection it is rather interesting to note that when Judge Taft stopped at Yokohama on his way to the Philippines and was entertained by the premier at an official dinner the man who sat next to him was Ingirio T. Taffir, the assistant secretary of the treasury, who was also a member of the class of '78 at Yale. In short, it seems to be a habit of that class to make sure of public office—at the greatest possible distance from New Haven."

ALGER SCORES MILES.

One of the Principal Chapters of Ex-Secretary's Book.

CONDUCT OF WAR WITH SPAIN.

Commanding General of the Army Severely Criticized For Alleged Derelictions in Connection With Santiago and Porto Rico Campaign—Sought to Embarrass the Department, Former Secretary Says.

General Russell A. Alger's book on the "Spanish-American War," published by Harper Bros., New York, advanced sheets of which have been given to the press, is creating much comment and reopens the discussion of questions relating to the conduct of the campaign against Spain while he was secretary of war.

In his opening chapters, says a writer in the New York Tribune, General Alger makes plainer than ever before the utter unpreparedness of the country for war. The law making the $50,000,000 appropriation was so worded that up to the declaration of war it could not be used for the most necessary part of army equipment. Consequently there was much confusion in organizing for the campaign. The government did not have and factories could not supply promptly munitions and clothing required, and many of the shortcomings of the army severely criticized at the time were not due to the officers or the department, but to the impossibility of doing on short notice what should have been prepared for by Congress years before.

The book does not refer directly to the attacks made upon General Alger personally or give any account of his relations with the administration or the events leading to his retirement. It defends the army appointments and declares that no favoritism was shown in selections; that the greatest care was taken to choose fit men, and that as many regulars were taken for volunteer service as could be spared from the army establishment without impairing its efficiency.

The substance of General Alger's chapter on the army beef controversy was published in The North American Review of last January, and the public is already familiar with his defense of General Egan's administration, though not of the language for which the latter was court-martialed, and also with his strictures on General Miles. In other respects he is also severe on General Miles. After recounting what he calls the general's "impossible and impracticable" plan to move an army from Neuvas westward to Santa Clara, building roads with the aid of prisoners, he says:

"This proposition, however, was only one of numerous others which were not approved. Many of the general's proposals were obviously impracticable and not infrequently absolutely impossible. He recommended the shipment of 12,000 men to Key West, where all drinking water would have to be brought in tank ships. With our hands full at Santiago and not enough troops there, he proposed to send a battery of artillery and a regiment of infantry as an expedition to the Isle of Pines, then of no military or strategic importance. He insisted on sending to Cuba, for use with infantry operating in a tropical jungle and over a country impassable to vehicles, his 'portable' shields, each weighing 1,000 pounds and each occupying as much room on a transport as a hospital ambulance. He recommended the abandonment of Santiago after Cervera's fleet had been destroyed, thereby lifting the siege of the city and large garrison, without reaping the fruits of victory then practically in our hands. He wanted 500 marines of the navy placed under his control; he expressed the opinion that a proposed force of 16,452 men, mostly volunteers, was '10,000 more than will be required' for General Merritt's Philippine expedition, and while in Porto Rico he cabled to the war department a recommendation that 'the manufacture of Springfield rifles, .45 caliber ammunition, all white canvas tentage and black leather equipments of every description be discontinued, as they are obsolete and should not be a part of the army equipment.'"

In answer to this last recommendation the following dispatch was sent by General Alger under date of Aug. 5, 1898:

"As you ought to know, the last .45 caliber Springfield rifle was manufactured in 1893. Smokeless powder cartridges are now being manufactured and will be forwarded. I suggest that you get along with what the government has on hand."

Contributing, General Alger says: "It was decided that General Shafter should command the Santiago expedition, otherwise known as the Fifth corps, and after sailing orders had been issued to him General Miles was directed to organize an expedition to Porto Rico. Upon the capture of Santiago, which it was then believed would require but a short time, General Shafter and his force were to rendezvous at Niipe and there join the army for Porto Rico, to be organized by General Miles, who was to command in person both forces when thus united."

It soon developed, however, that General Miles regarded the Porto Rico movement of greater importance than the expedition to Santiago. On June 6, the day before the Fifth corps was ordered to sail from Tampa, General Miles recommended the abandonment of the movement to Santiago until after the taking of Porto Rico. * * * Translated into plain English, this plan proposed an invasion of No. 2 (Porto Rico), leaving No. 1 (Santiago) safely guarded—whatever that might mean. The occupation of Porto Rico having been accomplished, the army was then to return to Santiago, leaving a guard behind to take care of Porto Rico and promptly crush the Spanish power in Cuba, beginning with Santiago.

"On July 8, more than thirty days after the orders were issued, General Miles sailed from Charleston with about 4,000 men, touching en route at Santiago.

"General Miles * * * had been explicitly informed by the president, as well as by myself, before he went to Tampa, that he was at liberty to go in command of the Santiago expedition or to organize the force for the invasion of Porto Rico. * * * General Miles' instructions to organize and command the Porto Rican expedition were purposely withheld until Shafter or Miles should sail. General Miles did not command the Santiago expedition, and that he did not was his own mistake or misfortune. He lost the opportunity to command in the greatest land battle of the war."

Speaking of the government's refusal to permit General Shafter to agree to the evacuation of Santiago by the Spaniards instead of their surrender he says:

"General Miles, who had reached Cuba on the late July 11, arrived at General Shafter's headquarters on the afternoon of the next day. Although he was fresh from the United States and had not been subjected to the trying experience of three weeks' campaigning in the tropics, he seconded the only recommendation made by General Shafter which met with the disapproval of the government."

A NATIONAL QUESTION.

Game Preservation Difficult Because State Laws Conflict.

The interdependence of states in the matter of game laws may be illustrated by one or two examples, says Leslie's Weekly. The New England states without exception protect the robin, but their efforts can never produce the best results so long as the bird is treated as game during its winter sojourn in the south and killed for market. Eastern cities now obtain their supplies of quail, prairie chickens and other game very largely from distant states in the west. Nebraska finds that her quail are being rapidly killed off to supply the markets of Philadelphia and other eastern cities and for her own protection prohibits the shipment of birds from the state, while Pennsylvania, finding her supply of quail entirely inadequate to meet the local demand, declares that birds taken within the state shall not be sold at any time.

The Philadelphia game dealers contend that this law cannot restrict sales of game brought in from other states and accordingly supply their customers in season and out with imported quail kept in cold storage. High prices stimulate their agents in Nebraska to evade the shipping law and their country correspondents in Pennsylvania to ignore the local law, and the native birds when placed on sale cannot be distinguished from those which are imported. Game preservation in Pennsylvania thus becomes doubly difficult. Under the operation of nonexport laws the supply of quail from the west is diminished, prices naturally rise, and a premium is placed on the destruction of native birds. Unless the state can enforce the law with respect to imported game she cannot effectually protect her own birds.

Buddhist Nun to Visit America.

Sister Sanghanulla, a Buddhist nun, is coming to this country soon to lecture on the condition of the women of India and to interest the women of America in their behalf. The sister is an American woman, born in Texas, and was the wife of Senor A. de Souza Canavaro, in the diplomatic service of Portugal. The couple have three sons and a daughter. In entering the sisterhood Senora Canavaro discarded her name and her home, but renounced only her social duties, not those of wife and mother. During the prolonged absence of her husband in the discharge of his official duties his wife took up this serious work in the interest of women and has worked in connection with the Bodhi society, principally in Ceylon, establishing schools and orphanages for girls. In order to discover the best methods she has studied the different religions of the country and finds that most of the troubles of the orient arise from the superstitions and idolatrous rites of the people, the greatest suffering in India being caused by the caste system.

Landsmen For the Navy.

Recruiting men for the navy in the interior, says the Kansas City Star, is made possible by the new style of warships, which do not require sailors accustomed to managing canvas. The old time sailor is passing away both in England and America. Now a young farmer from Kansas or Missouri can enlist in the United States navy, take on the smartness that comes from bearing arms, see the great world, acquaint himself to steam machinery, a useful accomplishment for any man, and return to the pursuits of peace better equipped in every way for his experience.

A Typical South African Store.

O. R. Lawson, of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the province of the nearest railway station and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Lawson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months, no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by Wm. M. The Azure Tinted Eye.
An oculist is thus quoted in the Philadelphia Record: "Nine-tenths of the railroad men, pilots and men in whose business keenness and clearness of vision are a necessary adjunct possess blue eyes. Haven't you ever noticed the penetrating quality of a glance from an azure tinted eye seems to have? The cold, steady look from such an eye appears to read you through and through. In a great many years of practice I've discovered that very few blue-eyed people are compelled to wear glasses. Blue eyes are very attractive, but brown eyes are the most beautiful. Futility is usually devoted by gray eyes, and hazel eyes indicate a talent for music. The common eye is the gray eye, and the rarest is violet."

DOES NOT LIKE PASTOR

Mr. Rockefeller Said to Be Displeased With Dr. Eaton.

HE MAY LEAVE THE CHURCH.

Cleveland Baptists Afraid the Oil Magnate Will Decide to Attend Another House of Worship—New Minister of Other Church His Friend.Baptists of Cleveland, says a dispatch to the New York Herald, are greatly disturbed at the prospect that the old Euclid Avenue Baptist church
may lose its member and cofounder, John D. Rockefeller.Mr. Rockefeller has not only brought to the city a pastor of his own choosing for the East End Baptist church, but he seems to have taken the young minister in as almost a member of his own family, the new pastor having lived in the home of the multimillionaire ever since he came to the city. In fact, he is still living there.He is the Rev. E. A. Hanley of the University of Chicago. He has not yet been ordained a minister, but he has been appointed pastor of the struggling little East End Baptist church, and will receive a salary that has warranted his planning a tour of Europe for next summer. He probably receives the highest pastoral salary ever paid a divinity student not yet ordained a minister. His formal ordination is to occur soon in the church of which he is pastor.Lack of sympathy between the new pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, the Rev. Charles A. Eaton, D. D., and Mr. Rockefeller is responsible for the present condition of affairs. Dr. Eaton has preached several sermons that seem to be of a socialistic nature. In some of them he has made remarks concerning wealthy men which appear to be somewhat pointed.Mr. Rockefeller has not only guaranteed the comparatively large salary that is to be paid young Mr. Hanley, but he has also arranged to build him
a new church. The East End church is much nearer Forest Hill, the Rockefeller home, than the old church, and it is feared by many Baptists that if Mr. Rockefeller does not transfer his membership to the East End church when he returns to Cleveland he will,
at least, worship there under the young minister he has chosen.Members of the old church recall several speeches by Dr. Eaton which are supposed to have incensed Mr.
Rockefeller. At the recognition services held in June Dr. Eaton outlined his policy in these words:
"I don't care how rich a man is or how poor he may be. I don't care how ignorant or how wise he is thought to be. It makes no difference with me whether a man has to cents or $1,000,
when I enter this pulpit, I enter it as an expert in morals, and I see not the personality of the people who sit before me, but the souls to be saved."What's Your Face Worth.

diced look, moth patches and blotches plexion. Only 25 cents at H. F. Vort-

A curious relic of old world belief is reported in Yatesville, Pa. Two young men, from their names evidently Italians, were out chattering on Sunday and on their way home dropped their bag of nuts into an old well. One of them went down into the well to get the nuts, and when he did not return the other followed to see what had happened. The well was full of black slime, and both were suffocated. The next day an undertaker went to their homes to bury them and found that this had already been done by their parents, who had put the bodies under six inches of fresh soil in the garden.
Their belief being that if a person is suffocated he could be restored by burying him in fresh earth. So deep seated was this belief in the minds of the family and neighbors of the boys that it was with the utmost difficulty they were persuaded to allow the bodies to be interred properly and then only after another twenty-four hours had passed. It would be interesting to know what the origin of such a strange superstition is. Doubtless it can be traced back to some medieval miracle story.Mrs. T. Briddleman of Parshahville, Mich., was troubled with salmon for thirteen years and had tried a number of doctors without relief. After two applications of Banner Salve, her hands became better and in a short time she was entirely cured. Beware of substitutes. For sale by H. F. Vortkamp.Mrs. Familytree—"So you are really —"No, sir. We pay cash or we don't

Thieves lately took a $150 diamond ring from the home of Charles Nadell at Paterson, N. J. A few days after the ring was returned, accompanied by a note saying that, owing to the illness of Mrs. Nadell, it was decided to send it back, but warning him that he would again be visited by thieves.

TARKINGTON'S "BEAUCAIRE"

The Real History of the Novel and Play.The real history of "Beaucaire," which Richard Mansfield is producing, has not yet been told in full, says the New York Tribune. The play is an original comedy in four acts. The impression that "Beaucaire" is a dramatization of Booth Tarkington's churching novelette, "Monsieur Beaucaire," is not literally true, though Mr. Tark-ington is the author of both book and play.When he had finished "The Gentleman From Indiana" and that novel was in the first flush of success, he determined to try his pen on a dramatic composition. Mr. Tarkington had previously been conspicuous in theatricals at Princeton university and is still an active leader in the Amateur Dramatic club of Indianapolis.He conceived the story of "Beaucaire," and having gathered the threads of his situations together, he wrote what every dramatist wishes before he puts his material into acts and dialogue—that is, a scenario. This scenario grew under the pen of a pen, and with some polishing he found himself in possession of a novelette which an extensive public knows as "Monsieur Beaucaire."How much the play of "Beaucaire" was in his mind when he completed the novelette may be gathered from an interesting and heretofore unpublished document written by Booth Tarkington himself. It is the dedication of "Monsieur Beaucaire" to his sister, Hauca Tarkington Jameson, which was set up by the publishers, but recalled by the author before the book was printed. In it he speaks of his composition as if it were a play:You will see, I trust, consider me too insensitive when I tell you that, while I have ever admired your career, I have never been able to be of an even finer quality than your own. I
